HEADING EAST

Competitors from the Historic Sports Car Club will head east over this weekend (23/24 April) to the Snetterton 300 circuit for the second race meeting of the Club's 2022 season. A full and varied weekend of racing will include several guest grids, adding to the usual HSCC mix of single seaters, sports cars and touring cars of the 1960s and 1970s.

PAUL LAWRENCE

Several HSCC grids will open their season at Snetterton but for the 70s Road Sports Championship competitors this will be their second event, following some fabulous racing at Brands Hatch at the beginning of April.

For local racer Jeremy Clark in his Lotus Elan it will be a chance to finally lay the ghost of the corresponding 2021 meeting when the Elan hit major engine problems that ultimately wrecked his season. Now Clark is back stronger than ever and will be looking to build on two hard fought second places he took at Brands.

The star of the second race at Brands was former champion Charles Barter in his Datsun 240Z, who won after starting from the back of the grid with a mighty performance.

Other contenders will be local racer Antony Ross in his TVR 3000M and another Brands star David Tomkinson, who finished a fabulous fourth overall in his 1600cc TVR Vixen.

Snetterton however, should suit the more powerful cars and it could be a chance for Barter to build on his Brands Hatch success.

Historic Formula Ford 2000 opened at Brands with a fabulous grid of slicks and wings single seaters and that continues this weekend.

Benn Simms was the double winner at Brands and he'll aim to further extend his early championship lead at Snetterton. His key rival will be defending champion

Mark Mercer could be a contender in his Reynard along with Reynard founder Adrian and Adrian Langridge who add further quality to this fabulous field.

Graham Fennymore, while racing returnee Ollie Roberts will look to move nearer to the front of the pack after his 15 year gap from racing. Mark Mercer could be a contender in his Reynard along with Reynard founder Adrian and Adrian Langridge who add further quality to this fabulous field.

Snetterton will mark the start of the Historic Formula Ford Championship preseason and two more stunning races are highly probable from a fine grid.

Typically Snetterton delivers slipstreaming thrillers in Formula Ford and races are won and lost by fractions of a second. former champion Callum Grant is back in his faithful Merlyn Mk20 to take on young Samuel Harrison, who heads the Speedsport team this season in what will surely be his strongest Formula Ford campaign so far.

Tom McArthur is another potential race winner along with Matt Wrigley, one of the busiest racers in the historic arena. Danny Stanzl will be right up there in his ever spectacular Elden while among the Over 50s class, former champion Rob Smith makes a welcome return to racing after missing two seasons due to Covid and on-going travel challenges from his European base.

Rivalling the Historic Formula Ford pack will be the Classic Formula Ford 1600 championship for the pre-1982 cars. Current champion Jordan Harrison is back as strong as ever in his Lola while racing veteran Rick Morris will enjoy another season in his Royale. Joining him will be former Historic champion Richard Tarling in a Royale RP26 in the livery of Bedford-based SDC Builders. This car is racing in honour of the RP26 raced in period by local ace David Wheeler as SDC celebrates 50 years of business.

Also starting their 2022 championship season will be contenders in the Historic Formula 3 championship for the wonderful 1-litre cars of the late 1960s and early 1970s. Current champion Simon Armer leads the field in his March 703 but prolific racer Samuel Harrison could upset the normal form book with an appearance in a Chevron B15. Ian Bankhurst is another front runner in his Alexis while period F3 racer Mike Walker is back for another season in his Brabham.

Rounds two and three of the Historic Road Sports Championships puts the cars of the late 1950s and Historic Touring Cars are also in action with a grid of pre-'66 cars 1960s onto the grid and the open space of Snetterton should really suit the Morgan Plus 8s of Richard Plant and John Shaw. Chasing them will be the quickest of the Lotus Elans in the hands of Adrian Gilbert and Chris Merrick, while Andrew Smith should be a contender in his Marcos 1800.

Historic Touring Cars are also in action with a grid of pre-'66 cars headed by current champion and Brands Hatch winner Mike Gardiner in his Lotus Cortina. His opposition includes young Sam Attard in a similar car and Tim Scott-Andrews, who will look to exploit the power of his Ford Falcon here at Snetterton.

Adding further to the weekend, will be grids for Ecurie Classic Racing, the ever popular Monoposto formula and the Classic and Modern Motorsport Club.
